Devacon GmbH: experts for mobile solutions and speech recognition

The IT specialist offers software applications which profit from many years of experience and a sure sense for promising trends

eMODAT is backed by the qualified team of Devacon GmbH. The IT experts from Ahrensfelde on the outskirts of Berlin develop efficient software products and solutions for healthcare institutions and the medical sector. Consulting and services concerning digital speech recognition and mobile communication are integral components of the corporate portfolio, too. Technical support, practice-oriented trainings as well as worldwide distribution round off the comprehensive range of services.

When it comes to planning and implementation, Devacon acts according to a rather simple principle: make complex software and technology as transparent as possible! And this approach is extremely well received among the target group. Renowned hospitals and care facilities appreciate the company's long-year competence which is partly based on the practice and specialist knowledge of managing director Eduard Meiler who studied medicine and engineering during his university years. Meiler has contributed significantly to a wide range of different developments and solutions by Devacon.

Many small and medium-sized enterprises from different industries – not least from mechanical engineering and the hotel business – are among the circle of customers. It is no coincidence that they place their confidence in Devacon. Qualities like many years of experience, well-founded expertise and a sure sense for promising innovations are the perfect foundation in order to be able to meet the diversified requirements of all kinds of industries.
